

Mother Earth = Unlimited Battery Power by Joseph D. Smith

Perpetual energy is such a huge secret, but why? Mother Earth can tell you why not. The Earth's magnetic field is our source for unlimited battery power, and I mean unlimited, with no batteries included, nor even needed! All it takes is some sensors to pick up the magnetic energy, some electrical units, and some wires, then presto! Unlimited battery power is at your finger tips.

So, why do we continue to waste precious energy, while destroying our nurturing Mother Earth in the process? Money doesn't make you greedy, so money isn't the problem, the problem is people who think they are better, more superior, and more intelligent than the rest of us! Apparently if they can't be happy, then nobody can be... Well, if we had unlimited energy, then there would be more than enough to go around, so why be greedy? If everyone had plenty, then everyone would be happy, there wouldn't be any need for excessive wealth. Be happy, have plenty.

The Earth's magnetic field is all around us, the energy would be right beneath our feet! No matter where you go, the technology would always work. Although the farther north you go, the bigger the impact on the electrical devices. There would have to be a standard for how this technology is made. This technology would be worth every penny!

If we saved Mother Earth, then she would be more than happy to save us, and she is more than willing to power every single electrical device. Although, we would need to build special compressors to keep the magnetic energy from interfering with the performance of the electrical device. The sensor would simply pick up on the magnetic field's energy, the compressor would make the device compatible, while the electrical units would make the device function.